The Internet offers nearly endless education, entertainment and social networking options for children. The Internet is also a place where youngsters can become targets of predators who may use Internet e-mail, chat rooms, instant messaging, blogs, and social networking sites to potentially harm children.

Did You Know? Nearly every school-age child has access to the Internet at home or at school. The US Department of Justice reports:

- One in Seventeen Children is threatened, harassed, or bullied.
- One in Five Children receives a sexual solicitation or approach over the Internet.
- One in Thirty-Three Children receives an aggressive sexual solicitation - a request to meet somewhere, a telephone call, regular mail, money or gifts.
- One in Four Children has an unwanted exposure to pictures of a pornographic nature.

Twin Rivers Unified School District and the United States Department of Justice have joined together to help educate parents, caregivers, educators, and students about the dangers to children posed by the Internet and about safe Internet use.
